VOLUME XXXI NO. 93

SEYMOUR, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MARCH 14, 1912.

PRICE TWO CENTS

CHAIRMANSHIP RACE IS NOW ON

Ten Democratic Precinct Committeemen Elected in Jackson Township.

COMMITTEE TO MEET SOON

Burkart of Seymour and Robertson of Brownstown Running For Chairman.

The Democrats of Jackson township held a mass meeting at the city building Wednesday evening to select ten new precinct committeemen to serve the coming campaign. Township Chairman Bert Kasting had been in Columbus during the day and was late in returning home. The anxiety for a time of some of the leaders who are interested in the makeup of the organization indicated that fears were entertained that well made plans might go wrong and that some one might kick a hole in the slate if the proceedings were not properly guided. Kasting finally arrived however and with a sigh of relief the manipulators watched him start the wheels going. He was elected permanent chairman of the meeting and J. Newt Gibson was elected secretary.

The voters then separated according to precincts and proceeded with the selection of the committeemen. As a general thing no difficulty was experienced in putting through the men agreed upon although there were one or two slips.

The men selected were:

- 1st precinct, F. W. Wesner.
- 2nd precinct, Joe Steel.
- 3rd precinct, C. W. Burkart.
- 4th precinct, Arthur Jerrell.
- 5th precinct, Charles Roemmel.
- 6th precinct, Abe Lawell.
- 7th precinct, Albert Kasting.
- 8th precinct, Henry Bettenbrock.
- 9th precinct, Marion Weddell.
- 10th precinct, Harry M. Miller.

Five of the old committeemen were selected and five are new men on the job.

As the other Democratic committeemen had been previously selected the fight for the county chairmanship will now open in earnest. Chairman Elsnor has called a meeting of the new committee to be held in Brownstown Monday, March 25 to elect officers. Although several ambitious Democrats have been flitting with the job it is understood that all of them are now out of the race excepting C. W. Burkart, treasurer of this city, and Ross Robertson, a Brownstown attorney. Others may enter the contest but it is not considered probable as a good many of the committeemen have already pledged themselves. It is understood that the ten men selected in this township Wednesday evening are for Burkart which is considered a good start and he is credited with having numerous other pledges, and to have some very strong backing among the leaders.

Mrs. Solomon Miller, who has been in the Schneck hospital for several days, was able to be removed to the home of her niece, Mrs. Joe Hulse, Wednesday.

Fired Several Shots.

Deputy Sheriff Van Robertson went to Vallonia Tuesday and arrested Alfred Stage and placed him in jail on a charge of assault and battery with intent.

On Monday evening about six o'clock Alf was in Henry Fosbrink's store at Vallonia. He had been drinking and his conduct became such that it was necessary to put him out the front door, which was fastened to prevent him coming back in. This so enraged him that he smashed his fist through the glass in the door.

He then continued up the street and when in front of Turmail's store noticed a crowd of boys snow-balling across the street near Rainbold's livery barn, when he pulled a revolver from his pocket and began shooting toward them, firing four shots.

The boys ranged from fourteen to sixteen years of age. When they heard the first shot and saw from whence it came, they beat a hasty retreat into the livery barn.

Alfred Stage has been a heavy drinker for many years. At times he would reform, but the taste for liquor was too strong for him to entirely overcome and he would soon return to the old habit; but until now he was generally regarded as harmless.

The drink habit has so strongly affected his physical condition that he was a complete nervous wreck when arrested by the deputy sheriff. —Brownstown Banner.

VENTILATE COACHES

In Proper Manner Is the Order on The B. & O.

An order has been passed by the B. & O. to the effect that care must be taken by the porters and train crews in order that the passenger coaches be ventilated as well as possible. On through trains where few stops are made the ventilation is the most defective and the order gives the two causes for the existence of such:

1. A system of circulation somewhat defective making it necessary in order that proper temperature be preserved to curtail circulation.
2. Neglect to some extent on the part of porter and train crew generally to give the subject the attention it deserves.

A poorly ventilated coach affects the passengers and the employees should see that the best of ventilation is had. Another order has also been issued whereby the conductors of the road will change from the double breasted Prince Albert coats, which have been worn during the winter, to a frock coat for the summer. The brakeman will not change the style of their uniforms for the summer.

COMMERCIAL CLUB

Will Hold Another Meeting Friday Evening.

The Commercial Club will hold a meeting at the city building Friday evening and will consider any matters that may come up for the good of the city.

The membership committee has secured many new names since last meeting. Everyone seems to be deeply interested in the club and willing and anxious to take a hand in boosting Seymour this year.

Best Shade Tree.

The maples are used in Indiana more extensively for shade tree purposes than all other kinds of trees combined. There are four kinds used. The silver-leaf and red maple, commonly called the soft maples, are most frequently planted on account of their rapid growth. Their use should be discontinued because they are subject to the deadly attack of several common insect pests and they grow long slender branches which frequently break off when loaded with ice. The Norway maple has recently been introduced but is too low-headed to make a desirable shade tree.

Our native sugar maple is by far the best kind of maple to plant along a street unless a small tree is desired. It will adapt itself to all kinds of soil, except a wet and undrained one. However, it grows best on a moist or dry, porous soil. The sugar maple has as yet been able to resist its insect enemies.

The trees for planting should be secured from the nursery and not be over eight feet high. Trees from the nursery will have a better root system and are not as likely to sun scald as trees transplanted from the forest. If the tree should sun scald, that is, a part of the body die, it is better to plant another tree than keep the defective one which will begin to decay and die early.

When planting the tree do not cut off the top. All pruning should be confined to taking off the lower branches until the head of the trees is 10 to 12 feet above the ground.

Shade trees as a rule are planted too close. A seventy-foot lot should not have more than two trees. After the tree is carefully planted place some kind of protection around it.

A booklet on the selection, planting and care of shade trees may be had free by writing the State Board of Forestry at Indianapolis.

Big Business Block Sold.

A deal was closed Wednesday evening by E. C. Bollinger as agent by which George A. Clark, the wholesale grocer purchased the three story Willman furniture store building on South Chestnut street. The building has a frontage of forty feet and is 110 feet deep; it has three store rooms and runs from Chestnut street to Carter street. Mr. Clark will move to his new property as soon as it can be vacated which will be within sixty days. The building has the floor space which Mr. Clark finds that his increasing business demands. He now occupies two business rooms on South Chestnut street and has a large storage building on Carter street but still needs more room.

Mr. Willman expects to have a big furniture sale and dispose of his entire stock for the purpose of retiring from active business.

Ministers' Agreement.

At New Castle after considering the matter since the first of the year, the ministerial association of that city, in meeting yesterday afternoon, joined by several ministers of the county, laid down the law in the matter of officiating at marriages of divorced persons in the future. The action was taken after the ministers had noticed the alarming increase in the number of divorces from trivial causes.

The action was in the form of a resolution signed by 27 ministers of the city, county and state, that the ministers will not perform the ceremony for persons who have figured in divorce cases, only where such persons are innocent and adultery is the charge.

The resolution was given to the public with the injunction that the marriage ties were a divine institution as well as a legal contract, and would be held as such in the future. Several ministers of the county did not sign the resolution, but all of these in the city did.

ANNUAL BARGAIN DAY

An Opportunity Many Republican Readers Welcome.

Each year the number of readers who take advantage of the Republican's annual bargain day increases. From the many inquiries received recently the number of persons planning to take advantage of the day's offer this year will be a record breaker. Next Saturday, March 16, will be the date observed as bargain day and on that day only subscriptions for the Daily Republican will be received for four dollars in advance. To take advantage of this opportunity of saving $1.20 on the year's subscription all arrears must be paid first. The price is a money saver and also saves those who take advantage of it the trouble of making weekly payments. The saving of 25 per cent is certainly worth considering.

The Republican subscription list is constantly growing and the 1250 subscribers the daily now has furnish strong evidence of the popularity of the paper. Carrying out the motto, "More home news than any other paper in Jackson county" has proved a winner and the publication is now recognized as one of the very best newspapers in southern Indiana.

Do not forget that next Saturday, the 16th is the only day this year on which you can take advantage of the $4 offer. Arrange to take advantage of it. See your carrier boy or call at the office.

A LICENSE

Must Be Secured by Almost Every Class of Business in Florida.

From a recent issue of a Florida paper it appears that almost every class of business is licensed in that state. A report published shows that merchants are required to pay a uniform license of $3.00 to the state and $1.50 to the county. Druggists license fees are $6 to the state and $3 to the county. Hotel licenses amount to $5 for the state and $2.50 for the county. Barbers license fees are $2.82 to the state and $1.43 to the county. Restaurant fees are $5 to the state and $2.50 to the county. Livery stable fees are $7.50 to the state and $3.75 to the county. Lawyer's fees are $10 to state and $5 to county. Bankers are taxed $25 for the state and $12.50 for the county. Pool room's fees are $30 to the state and $15 to the county. Insurance company's fees are $2.50 to the county. Undertakers are assessed $25 for the state and $12.50 for the county. Every line of business must secure a license. This license fee is in addition to the assessment for taxes. The money derived from the sale of licenses goes into the school fund and is used for school purposes.

W. C. T. U.

The attendance of the W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. Naylor yesterday was large and the members greatly appreciated the program given. The article by Mrs. Rapp was of especial interest. Plans were made for the coming institute. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Jay C. Smith March 27th.

Court of Honor.

A penny social will be given at the hall Friday night. Two of the Supreme officers of the Court of Honor will be present. All members are urged to be present and bring their pennies. m15d

Cast Iron

Would be just the thing for school shoes if it were more pliable and not quite so heavy. The next best thing is Rice & Hutchins Gun Metal out of which they make their school shoes, for both boys and girls. The repeated calls and constant patronage of a long line of customers for this shoe added to the fact we never have a complaint from them, convinces us it is the shoe of shoes, let us convince you.

Rice & Hutchins have every facility for making good shoes, their reputation would prevent them making shoddy shoes.

DAUGHERTY:—Alexander Daugherty, an old soldier and blacksmith of Brownstown, died this morning at 9 o'clock at his home after an illness of several weeks of erysipelas.

He was 69 years of age and was the father of fourteen children, nine of whom with the wife survive. Mr. Daugherty has lived in this county since the war.

Beveridge Spoke.

Ex-Senator Beveridge spoke at a big mass meeting held at Indianapolis last night in the interest of the Roosevelt candidacy. The meeting was enthusiastic and the address recognized as a masterly one even by those who did not agree with the speaker in endorsing Roosevelt. Mr. Beveridge spoke on the policies advanced by Roosevelt at Columbus but urged the ex-president as the man who can win and as the great exponent of the forward movement in American life and of his record. He also attacked the tactics being used by the Indianapolis city administration in the campaign.

Sick Women

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured many cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are five letters from southern women which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.

Elliston, Va.—"I feel it my duty to express my thanks to you and your great medicine. I was a sufferer from female troubles and had been confined in bed over one third of my time for ten months. I could not do my housework and had fainting spells so that my husband could not leave me alone for five minutes at a time.

"Now I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. Whenever I see a suffering woman I want to tell her what these medicines have done for me and I will always speak a good word for them."—Mrs. ROBERT BLANKENSHIP, Elliston, Montgomery Co., Va.

LETTER FROM LOUISIANA.

New Orleans, La.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with hot flashes, weak and dizzy feelings, backache and irregularities. I would get up in the morning feeling tired out and not fit to do anything.

"Since I have been taking your Compound and Blood Purifier I feel all right. Your medicines are worth their weight in gold."—Mrs. GASTON BLONDEAU, 1541 Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

Wauchula, Fla.—"Some time ago I wrote to you giving you my symptoms, headache, backache, bearing-down, and discomfort in walking, caused by female troubles.

"I got two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Sanative Wash and that was all I used to make me a well woman.

"I am satisfied that if I had done like a good many women, and had not taken your remedies, I would have been a great sufferer. But I started in time with the right medicine and got well. It did not cost very much either. I feel that you are a friend to all women and I would rather use your remedies than have a doctor."—Mrs. MATTIE HODNOT, Box 406, Wauchula, Florida.

LETTER FROM WEST VIRGINIA.

Martinsburg, W. Va.—"I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for my mother, daughter and myself.

"I have told dozens of people about it and my daughter says that when she hears a girl complaining with cramps, she tells her to take your Compound."—Mrs. MARY A. HOCKENBERRY, 712 N. 3rd St., Martinsburg, W. Va.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.

Newport News, Va.—"About five years ago I was troubled with such pains and bloating every month that I would have to go to bed.

"A friend told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. The medicine strengthened me in every way and my doctor approved of my taking it.

"I will be glad if my testimony will help some one who is suffering from female weakness."—Mrs. W. J. BLAYTON, 1029 Hampton Ave., Newport News, Va.

Why don't you try this reliable remedy?

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

KATE SHELLEY.

"Kate Shelley is dead."
The telegram that told of her going saddened many hearts.

Kate Shelley!
For thirty-one years she has been the ideal heroine of the northwest and in all those years she has lived so modestly and worthily as to confirm the public's good opinion of her strong and gentle spirit.

The story is an old one.

On the night of July 6, 1881, Honey creek, in Boone county, Ia., became a torrent and swept away the bridge.

The Shellys were aroused by the crash of a freight train which had plunged into the stream.

Miss Shelly and her mother were at home alone.

Against the protest of her mother Kate, who at that time was but fifteen years of age, lighted a lantern and started for the wreck. It was a black night, and she reached the bank of the creek under great difficulty.

Arriving, she was attracted by the cry of the engineer, who was the only survivor of the wreck and was clinging to a tree.

Then she thought of the night express which was almost due. To save the train she must cross the Des Moines river bridge, already beginning to tremble from the flood, and get to Moingona station.

She ran a mile to the bridge, and then her lantern went out, leaving her in pitch darkness. The bridge was 400 feet long and swung fifty feet above the river. It swayed under the impact of the waters.

The heroic girl crawled on her hands and knees along the perilous structure, praying for strength. Flashes of lightning revealed the tottering bridge, and the swollen waters added terror rather than assistance.

Somehow she crossed the bridge and got to the station just in time to warn the train, dropping prostrate.

In 1882 the Iowa legislature voted her a medal and $200. The Northwestern railroad made her station agent at Moingona for life.

Today the finest bridge on the main line of the Northwestern road, over the Des Moines river, near Moingona, is named the Kate Shelly bridge.

She never married, and when she died at the railroad's hospital last month, a private car bore her body home to Moingona.

And that's all.

But so long as the waters of the Des Moines river shall flow beneath the Kate Shelly bridge, the heroism of the brave Irish lass shall be told as a memorial of her.

MEN TEACHERS.

Recently there has been much discussion in educational circles of the need of men teachers in the higher grades, and some effort has been made to attract them to the work, without any appreciable results. There must be something about the calling of the teacher—either its pecuniary rewards or its range of opportunities—that is inadequate to attract and hold men who might take up this calling as a life work. The average man teacher uses his position as a makeshift, a stepping-stone and means of livelihood while he studies for the law, the medicine or some other profession, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Usually the man teacher leaves at the earliest opportunity for more flattering and lucrative fields of endeavor. It would seem that teaching would be the most enjoyable work for the student of books—and of human nature, but the fact remains that men as a rule do not so regard it. It must be admitted that the profession of teaching does not hold the financial attractions of men that are offered in other professions. The years of preparation required, the constant study necessary, the investment in books and other expenses make a severe drain on the teacher's income, which is small at best. If it be true that there is a real demand for more men teachers, the chances are that the demand will be supplied when the compensation is made commensurate with the services rendered.

The advent of the automobile has brought the good roads problem to the front all over the world and its first effect was to seem to make it more difficult. From Europe comes the word that even the wonderful roads of England and France break down under the heavy traffic. Abroad as well as in the United States, special bodies of experts have been at work to discover the secret of more resistant surfaces, and on both sides of the Atlantic the conclusion seems to be in favor of bituminous road-binders—and that the most available country road from all points of view is the bituminized macadam. The elements entering into what constitutes a good country road include cost, length of life, quality of surface and freedom from dust. The bituminized road is not long lived under heavy traffic, but the old water-bound macadam is converted to dust by the procession of tearing touring cars, and the dust is blown away. The bituminized macadam may not be the best thing in the road line ideally possible, but it is the best attainable at the present time.

France is soon to have the first aerial regiment ever organized. Not all the members can, for the present, take the air at once, but an appropriation is to be asked for buying enough aeroplanes to bring the total up to 1,000, of four different sorts. The yearly cost of keeping this service efficient is estimated at $4,000,000; the cost in lives is not so easy to reckon.

A woman in a western city jumped upon the stage in a moving picture show and by singing stopped a panic in the audience. There are some things more startling than an alarm of fire.

One hundred and eighty-five murders were committed in Chicago in the year which ended December 31, 1911—an average of more than one a day. No wonder there are those who call Chicago "the Wicked City."

The New York woman whose funny stories caused a visitor to die of laughter ought to be writing for the comic weeklies. Most of them need just such brightening up.

And doubtless the concrete rocking chair, just invented by Edison, has merits, as something to fall over in the dark, superior to those of the kind at present in use.

A twenty-year-old girl has left a Philadelphia hospital after seven years spent there and thirty-two operations. She ought to be able to claim an immunity bath.

A Boston pastor desires that the basement of his church shall be converted into a "courtship parlor." Something must have happened to the rear pews.

An Indiana club woman says that silk stockings are the curse of working girls. That probably depends on whether they have them or not.

A bear dance has been prohibited in Boston. Now it remains to be seen what action would be taken in that town over a bull rush.

HOME AT NIGHT

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

When chirping crickets fainter cry,
And pale stars blossom in the sky,
And twilight's gloom has dimmed the bloom
And blurred the butterfly:

When locust blossoms fleck the walk,
And up the tiger-lily stalk
The glow-worm crawls and clings
And glimmers down the garden-walls:

When buzzing things with double wings
Of crisp and raspy flutterings,
Go whizzing by so very nigh
One thinks of fangs and stings:

O then, within, is stilled the din
Of crib she rocks the baby in,
And heart and gate and latch's weight
Are lifted—and the lips of Kate.

THE COLONEL WAS A DISAPPOINTED MAN

Couldn't Understand Why They Let Him Off.

Oyster Bay, March 13.—In the Nassau county courthouse in Mineola Juror Theodore Roosevelt was challenged by the lawyer for a boy, who after losing both legs under the wheels of a railroad train, is suing for damages. Surrogate J. J. Graham, representing the boy, did not even ask Colonel Roosevelt a question as to his qualifications as a juror. He merely said as the ex-president took seat No. 7 in the box: "This will be a long case, colonel, and I'll excuse you."

Colonel Roosevelt, having motored the nineteen miles between Sagamore Hill and the courthouse every morning for six days, was evidently disappointed. Subsequently in a talk with Surrogate Graham, he asked: "Who was it that did not want me?"

Someone ready with misinformation replied that it was the lawyers for the railroad who had refused his services.

"Why, I'd give even a railroad a square deal," he exclaimed. When he was later told that it was the counsel for the crippled boy who considered him an undesirable juror, he seemed more puzzled than before. "I don't see what counsel for the boy had to fear. I certainly would have been guided by the evidence," said he.

TO STRIKE OR NOT TO STRIKE, THE QUESTION

Miners' Controversy to Be Determined Today.

New York, March 13.—The members of the committee of the anthracite workers which will meet the committee of ten of the anthracite operators this afternoon to hear the detailed reply of the operators to the miners' demands, began to arrive early at the Victoria hotel, which will be the headquarters of the committee while its members are in town. They consist of the principal officers of the three anthracite districts, Nos. 1, 7 and 9 of the anthracite workers, and John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers, who is chairman of the committee and also chairman of the committee of bituminous miners which will confer with the bituminous operators in Cleveland a week from today over the demands of the bituminous miners.

BIG INDICTMENT OF 128 COUNTS

Judge Anderson Bunches the Dynamite Cases.

ADOPTED AS THE BETTER PLAN

Upon Motion of the District Attorney, Federal Court Decides to Consolidate the Thirty-Two Indictments in the Dynamite Cases Into One Case as a Means of Simplifying Proceedings When Cause Goes to Trial.

Indianapolis, March 14.—In federal court Judge Anderson ordered the consolidation of the thirty-two indictments in the dynamite cases into one case. This makes one big indictment of 128 counts, twenty-eight of which charge conspiracy and an even one hundred of which charge specific violations of the law regulating the safe transportation of explosives.

While the government will go into the trial Oct. 1 on all 128 counts, the defense will not have to defend against all the conspiracy counts, as Judge Anderson said after the evidence of the government had been introduced the government probably would be compelled to elect on what conspiracy count it would stand. The motion to consolidate the thirty-two dynamite cases, in each of which there are fifty-four defendants, was made by United States Attorney Miller.

Judge Anderson said as he was assured by the district attorney in court that the evidence in all the conspiracy cases would be the same and that the evidence to support the other indictments would be admissible under the conspiracy indictments, the consolidation of all the cases into one seemed to be the better plan.

The large number of conspiracy indictments, however, furnished the "hitch" in the plan, leading to some argument and deliberation before the court ordered the consolidation. Judge Anderson said his idea was that there was one conspiracy and could be only one, and that he could not understand how a conspiracy could occur in about thirty different ways. He said he was not of the opinion that at least forty-six men ought to be compelled to meet thirty charges based on one offense.

NO MORE FLIRTING

South Bend Going to Put a Stop to Street "Mashing."

South Bend, Ind., March 14.—An ordinance against public flirting has just been passed here. Both men and women come under its strict provisions, and a heavy penalty is provided for those who violate it. The maximum fine is $100, and to this may be added a jail sentence of thirty days. The new ordinance, which passed the city council with only one dissenting vote, is aimed at the male flirt and woman street walker. However, a woman may be held for flirting the same as a man, and is liable to an equally heavy fine. Loafing about any public place or building constitutes an offense, if indulged in by either men or women, and the violator is liable to arrest and imprisonment.

MADE THEM MAD

Highwaymen Kick Victim Who Was Found Without Money.

Petersburg, Ind., March 14.—Two highwaymen held up Curly Brown, a young man at Thomas schoolhouse, ten miles east of here, and after forcing him to take off both coat and overcoat, thoroughly searched him. They found only a barlow knife and a fountain pen. Angered at their failure to get any money, they returned him his coats, and giving him a swift kick, told him to chase himself. He took refuge in the next farmhouse and stayed there until morning. This is the second holdup at the Thomas schoolhouse in the week. Both men were masked.

IT COMES HIGH

Blind Tiger Operators in Grant County Pay the Penalty.

Marion, Ind., March 14.—Bert Wingate, the proprietor of a cigar store in Gas City, was found guilty of operating a blind tiger, the jury fining him $250 and sentencing him to 150 days in jail. Another jury found Jerome Shoemaker and John Herring, proprietors of a restaurant in Jonesboro, guilty under the blind tiger statute, fined each $150 and sentenced each to a term of 150 days in jail.

Firebugs Foiled.

Linton, Ind., March 14.—An attempt was made to burn the home of J. M. Morris, who lives two miles west of this city. Coal oil had been poured several places about the house and matches applied. The fire was discovered in time to save the house from burning down.

WILEY RESIGNS

Pure Food Expert Succumbs to the Lure of the Tripod.

New York, March 14.—"Printers' Ink" announces in today's issue the resignation of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley as chief of the United States bureau of chemistry. Dr. Wiley will become contributing editor of "Good Housekeeping." He has been in the bureau of chemistry for twenty-nine years.

"His only reason for changing his base of operations," says Printers' Ink, "is to secure greater independence and freedom of action."

"Just what the new contributing editor will contribute remains to be seen. Even the publishers of Good Housekeeping themselves do not know. One thing only is decided—that is, that he is to have an absolutely free hand."

SECOND CONFERENCE ON MINE SITUATION

There Is Still a Chance of Averting Strike.

New York, March 14.—Just long enough for the answer of the operators, which was quite lengthy, to be read, lasted the conference of the anthracite operators and representatives of the United Mine Workers of America, at which the reasons for the denial of the miners' demands and the reasons therefor were submitted to the committee of ten operators. President John P. White and his associates then asked to be permitted to consider the answer until this afternoon, when there will be a further conference, at which the miners will say whether they will submit a new proposal or strike.

Following the conference the operators said they had nothing to add to their answer, and insisted that it covers every point of the controversy and leaves the miners no alternative but work or strike. "If we did not think that there is still a chance of amicable adjustment there would be no need of any further meeting," said President White.

While the union men would not commit themselves, it is understood that they may ask for a further extension of time to consider the answer in order to await the result of the conferences in Chicago and Cleveland next week between the bituminous operators and their miners. It is known that the heads of the anthracite locals of the United Mine Workers will scarcely consent to a strike if there is peace in the bituminous districts, whereas united action of the entire organization would be effective.

Three negroes were taken from the jail at Olar, S. C., and lynched.

WOMEN GAINED WIDE HEARING

Fervid Suffrage Arguments Presented in Congress.

CROWDED COMMITTEE ROOMS

When Hearings Were Held by House and Senate Committees on Pending Bills Relating to Equal Franchise, the Leaders of the Suffrage Movement and Many of Their Supporters Were Present to Present Their Case.

Washington, March 14.—When hearings were held by both the senate and the house committees on pending bills providing for the extension of the ballot to women, leaders in the national movement for woman suffrage had a big time at the capitol. Among the well-known leaders of the movement who urged action by congress were the Rev. Anna H. Shaw, Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, Miss Inez Mitholland, Alice Stone Blackwell, Mrs. Harriet Burton Laidlaw, Miss Eltonora O'Reilly of New York, and Ida Husted Harper. The entire official board of the National American Woman's Suffrage organization was divided between the senate and the house committees. The proceedings before the two committees were managed by a committee of congressional women including Mrs. Kent of California, Mrs. Owen of Oklahoma, Mrs. La Follette of Wisconsin, Mrs. Stone of Illinois and Mrs. Burleson of Texas. Wives and daughters of members of the house and senate crowded the committee rooms.

More than 400 women were jammed into the little hearing room of the house judiciary committee when Chairman Clayton dropped his gavel to still the flutter of gossip. Chairman Clayton announced that Miss Addams, the well-known Hull House worker of Chicago, would control the proceedings.

Six different resolutions by members of the house were under consideration. Mr. Clayton announced.

Miss Addams announced that there would be nine speakers, each to occupy ten minutes, and she proceeded with the opening address. The crowd grew momentarily, and before she had finished women were standing on chairs, in window seats and on desks to get a view of the committee and speakers. Mere members of congress were crowded to the wall to give the women places. Representative Dupree of Louisiana, a member of the committee, who came in late, found his chair occupied by a fair suffragist and gallantly volunteered to stand during the greater part of the hearing.

Before the judiciary committee of the senate the Rev. Dr. Anna H. Shaw made a brief speech in opening the meeting, in which she declared suffrage was guaranteed in the constitution when a representative form of government was guaranteed. Other speakers before the senate committee were Mrs. Susan Walker Fitzgerald of Boston, Mrs. Harriet Laidlaw of New York, Mrs. Donald Hooker of Baltimore, Miss Caroline Low of Chicago, and Mrs. Stewart of Chicago, president of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association.

Their Loyalty Is Doubtful.

Peking, March 14.—Native reports from the provinces of Kansu and Shensi are to the effect that these districts are dominated by Manchus and Mohammedans and that loyalty to the new administration is very doubtful. Ten thousand imperial troops commanded by General Sheng Yun have engaged and defeated a government force and are now marching apparently to seize the Kalgan railroad. The imperial guards here believe these troops are on the way to Peking to attempt to restore the emperor.

Woman Loses Life in Fire.

Rushville, Ind., March 14.—Mrs. L. B. Harris lost her life in a fire which destroyed the residence six miles northeast of this city. She was alone in the house at the time and the supposition is she went upstairs and went to sleep. The coming on of the gas in the stoves is supposed to have been the cause of the fire.

ON DEATH BED HE DENIED IT

August Kissell Left a Deposition Declaring Innocence.

HE DID NOT DECEIVE SEGAL

In This Deathbed Deposition Former Official of Sugar Trust Says That Instead of Aiding in the Wreck of the Sugar Company, His Interests at All Times Were With the Philadelphia Concern.

New York, March 14.—In the trial of John E. Parsons and the other defendant directors of the American Sugar Refining company for conspiracy under the Sherman law, the deathbed affidavit of August Kissell, made during his last illness at the Presbyterian hospital, and throwing light on the Segal loan, figured. Mr. Kissell died on April 10 of last year after an illness that began the previous October. The affidavit was made a month before his death, when he knew he would not recover.

Delancy Nicoll of counsel for the defendants, only succeeded in getting Mr. Kissell's statement marked for identification. When Mr. Wise, for the government, showed that he did not propose to let the other side introduce it, Mr. Nicoll was plainly angry.

"You are certainly not going to object to this statement made by a man now dead, who was a defendant in this case?" he said. Mr. Wise replied that he certainly was.

In this deathbed deposition Mr. Kissell denied the charge of conspiracy and that the charge that he had deceived Segal when he made him the loan of $1,250,000. He insisted that instead of trying to ruin Segal and his Pennsylvania refinery, his interests were at all times with Segal and not with the sugar trust. In this statement Kissell sought to make it appear that Segal had known that the loan really came from the sugar trust. He said that he had first tried to get the money from some life insurance companies for Segal and that then he had happened to speak about it to Mr. Havemeyer one night at his house. Havemeyer first said that he would not make such a loan and later asked Segal, according to this affidavit, if the matter could be reopened. That was how the money came to be loaned, it being made clear to Segal, Kissell swore, that the real lender was not being disclosed. Segal, however, had to transact some of the business with John E. Parsons, and it was after making a visit to the latter that Mr. Kissell deposed that Segal remarked to him, "we now know who is making this loan."

The object of this last affidavit of Mr. Kissell was evidently to defend himself from the charge and not Mr. Havemeyer. Mr. Parsons or the other defendants in the present case. Thorne Kissell, his son and executor, again called on to produce more papers of his father, said that he wanted the fullest publicity regarding his father's connection with the matter. "I want to tell everything," he said. He was disappointed when Mr. Wise would not let him explain certain checks he produced. The defense contends that under no conceivable aspect of the case can the loans of Mr. Kissell to Segal be admitted, on the ground that they had nothing to do with the American Sugar Refining company.

That Mr. Kissell had had certain negotiations with the government during his last illness and before he made his affidavit, appeared from a question put by Mr. Wise to his son. "Are you familiar with the facts of the negotiations between your father and me preceding that statement?" was the question asked by Mr. Wise. Young Kissell seemed surprised at this and said that he did not know that there had been any.

Horace Havemeyer, son of H. O. Havemeyer, like young Kissell, was called upon to produce papers of his father's which the government wanted, but Mr. Havemeyer had none to produce. In response to questions from Mr. Wise he said that he had made search of his father's papers and had failed to find any letters or documents referring to the Segal matter. Letters to Mr. Havemeyer from John E. Parsons and Charles R. Helke regarding the Segal loan were among those he has failed to find.

He separated us when we lived together, but I am sorry for her."

EXPRESS MESSENGER
KILLS TWO BANDITS

They Were Not Looking for a Cool Headed Man.

San Antonio, Tex., March 14.—When he trapped two highwaymen who had held up the train, and killed them, an express messenger named Trousdale balked the robbery of a Southern Pacific train near Sanderson.

The robbers boarded the train a few miles east of Sanderson. The mail and express cars and the locomotive were detached from the passenger coaches. Then the engineer was compelled to run the two or three coaches ahead. One of the robbers took Trousdale back to the train and kept him under guard, while the other robber covered the crew in the cars ahead and started to rob the safe and express boxes.

Trousdale is said to have employed the old ruse of signalling to an imaginary person back of his captor. When the robber turned, Trousdale grasped a mallet, and before the highwayman could shoot, struck him and killed him.

Then, arming himself with the dead robber's revolver, Trousdale waited for the return of the other bandit. After he had robbed the express boxes, the second man returned to the coaches. Stepping from cover, Trousdale killed him. The train then proceeded.

ANOTHER WRECK

This Time It Is on the New York Central Near Poughkeepsie.

New York, March 14.—Ice and sleet saved the lives of probably most of the passengers of the first section of the New York Central Twentieth Century Limited when a broken rail snapped five cars of the flyer over an embankment that edges the Hudson river a few miles above Poughkeepsie. The heavy river ice, stopped the plunge of the cars, bore their weight and gave time for passengers to escape drowning. The steel cars withstood a shock that would have broken and splintered wooden coaches. Twenty-five were injured, a few seriously, but in no case, the Central officials said, are the injuries likely to prove fatal.

Not Worthy of Denial.

Havana, March 14.—The minister of Cuba at Washington, under instructions, asked President Taft for a statement in regard to the constant rumors in circulation here in reference to approaching intervention by the United States. The minister sent a cablegram in which he quoted President Taft as saying: "The United States cannot be expected to take notice of the rumors in Havana to the effect that intervention is being planned. I am disposed at your request to take the trouble to deny them on this occasion, but truly, Mr. Minister, I cannot establish the custom of denying one by one these foolish stories."

Has His Answer Ready.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., March 14.—Colonel Roosevelt's promised reply to President Taft's denunciation of the Roosevelt progressive theories as "crude and revolutionary," will be made at Carnegie hall before the Civic Forum next Wednesday night. The Carnegie hall speech will be the first of the series that Mr. Roosevelt plans to make. He has not announced where he will make the others.

Eugene Grace's Charge Against Wife Now Generally Discredited.

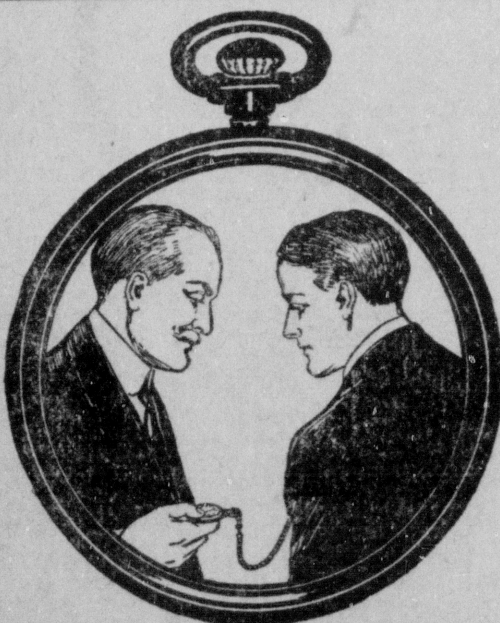

Atlanta, Ga., March 13.—Disclosures in regard to Eugene Grace have caused sentiment to veer in favor of his wife, who is confined in jail on a charge of shooting him after poisoning him and locking him up to die. So strongly has sentiment veered toward Mrs. Grace that her husband's story that he was drugged and shot by his wife is generally questioned.

Former Chief of Police Bell in an analysis of the case for a newspaper, bluntly states Grace has not told the truth and that Mrs. Grace is sure of acquittal because there is no legal evidence against her. The physicians state that Grace will recover. Mrs. Grace still protests her love for her husband.

CHAPTER VI. TIDES VARYING.

JOHN STEELE was rather late in arriving at the house of Sir Charles Wray in Piccadilly the following Thursday. But nearly every one else was late, and, perhaps knowing the fashionable foible, he had purposely held back to avoid making himself conspicuous by being prompt.

The program on the present occasion included a poet and a woman novelist. The former, a preaphaelite, led his hearers through dim mazes, Hyrcanian wilds. The novelist, on the other hand, was direct. In following her there seemed no danger of losing the way. At the conclusion of the program proper an admirer of the poet asked if their young hostess would not play a certain musical something, the theme of one of the bard's effusions, and at once Jocelyn Wray complied. Lord Ronsdale stood sedulously near, turning the leaves. Steele watched the deft hand. It was slim, aristocratic and suggested possibilities in legerdemain.

"An attractive looking pair!" whispered a woman near John Steele to another of her sex during a louder passage in the number. "Are they?" "I don't know, my dear. Perhaps. She's extremely well off in this world's goods, and he has large properties, but—a diminishing income." She lowered her voice rather abruptly as the cadence came to a pause. The music went on again to its appointed and spirited climax.

"Was formerly in the diplomatic service, I believe," the voice also went on; "has strong political aspirations, and, with a wealthy and clever wife"—"A girl might do worse. He is both cold and capable—an ideal combination for a political career—might become prime minister—with the prestige of his family and hers to"—

John Steele stirred. The whispering ceased. My lord turned the last page. The girl rose and bent for an instant her fair head. And as Steele looked at her again there came over him—this time, it may be, not without a certain bitterness—an impression of life and its joys—springtide and sunshine, bright, remote—so remote—for him.

A babel of voices replaced melody. The people got up. A number lingered. Many went after speaking to the hostesses and Sir Charles. John Steele, at the rear, looked at the door leading into the main hall toward the young girl, then stepped across the soft rugs and spoke to her. She answered in the customary manner, and others approached. He was about to draw back to leave when—

"Oh, Mr. Steele," she said, "my uncle wishes to see you before you go. He was saying he had some"—

"Quite right, my dear!" And Sir Charles, who had approached, took John Steele's arm. "Some curious old law books I picked up today at a bargain and want your opinion of," he went on, leading the other into a lofty and restful apartment adjoining the library. Steele looked around him. His gaze brightened as it rested on the imposing and finely bound volumes.

"You have a superb collection of books," he observed, with a sudden quick look at his host.

"Yes, I rather pride myself on my library," said Sir Charles complacently. "Lost a good many of the choicest, though," he went on in regretful tones, "some years ago as I was returning to Australia. A rare lot of law books, a library in themselves, as well as a large collection of the classics, the world's poets and historians, went down with the ill fated Lord Nelson."

"Ah?" John Steele looked away. "A great mart, London, for fine editions," he said, absent after a pause.

"It is. But here are those I spoke of." And Sir Charles indicated a number of volumes on a large center table. John Steele handled them thoughtfully, and for some time his host ran on about them. A choice copy of one of the Elizabethan poets, intruding itself to that august company, then attracted Steele's attention. He picked it up, weighed and caressed it with gentle fingers.

"Who shall measure the influence of—a little parcel like this?" he said at length lightly.

"True," Sir Charles' eye caught the title. "As Portia says, 'It blesseth him that gives and him that takes.' Excellent bit of binding too. But," with new zest, "take any interest in these books of the ring, full of eighteenth century colored prints, and so on?"

"I can't say at present that the doings of the ring or the history of pugilism attract me."

"That's because you've never seen an honest, hard fought battle perhaps?"

"A flattering designation, I should say, of the spectacle of two brutes disfiguring their already repulsive visages?"

"Two brutes—disfiguring?" the growling voice of Lord Ronsdale, who had at that moment stepped in, inquired. "May I ask what the talk is about?"

Sir Charles turned. "Steele was differing from me about a good, old honest English sport—the ring, its traditions, its chronicles."

"Ah!" The speaker looked at John Steele. The latter was nonchalantly regarding the pages of a book he yet held.

"For my part," went on Sir Charles in a somewhat disappointed tone, "I am one who views with regret the decadence of a great national pastime."

"Well, it's over!" the light tones of Jocelyn Wray interrupted. The girl stood on the threshold, glancing gayly from one to the other. "Did you tell my uncle, Mr. Steele, what you thought of his purchase? I see, while on his favorite subject, he has forgotten to offer you a cigar."

Sir Charles hastened to repair his remissness.

"But how," she went on, "did it go—the program, I mean? Have you forgiven me yet for asking you to come, Mr. Steele?"

"Forgiven?" he repeated. Lord Ronsdale's eyes narrowed on them.

"Confess," she continued, sinking to the arm of a great chair, "you had your misgivings."

He regarded the supple, slender figure so lightly poised. As she bent forward he noticed in her hair several flowers shaped like primroses, but light crimson in hue. "What misgivings was it possible to have?" he replied.

"Oh," she replied, "the usual masculine ones—misgivings, for example, about stepping out of the routine, routine that makes slaves of men," with an accent slightly mocking. "And stepping into what? Society—the bugbear of so many men! Poor society! What things it has to ensure! By the way, did your convict get off?"

"Get off? What?"

"The one you represented—is that the word?—when we were in court?"

"Yes. He was acquitted."

"I am glad. Somehow you made me feel he was innocent."

"I believed in him," said John Steele.

"And yet the evidence was very strong against him. If some one else had appeared for him—Do you think many innocent people have been—hanged or sent out of the country, Mr. Steele?" Her eyes looked brighter, her face more earnest now.

"Evidence can play odd caprices."

"Still, your average English juryman is to be depended on," put in Lord Ronsdale quickly.

"Do you think so?" An instant Steele's eyes rested on the speaker.

"No doubt you are right." A sardonic flash seemed to play on the nobleman. "At all events you voice the accepted belief."

"I'm glad you defend, don't prosecute, people, Mr. Steele," said the girl irrelevantly.

"A pleasant task perhaps."

"Speaking of sending prisoners out of the country," broke in Sir Charles, "I am not in favor of the penal system myself."

"Rather a simple way of getting rid of undesirables—transportation—it has always seemed to me," dissented Lord Ronsdale.

"Don't they sometimes escape and come back to England?" asked the girl.

"Not apt to when death for returning stares them in the face," remarked the nobleman.

"Death!" The girl shivered slightly.

John Steele smiled. "The penalty should certainly prove efficacious," he observed lightly.

"Is not such a penalty—for returning, I mean—very severe, Mr. Steele?" asked Jocelyn Wray.

"That," he laughed, "depends somewhat on the point of view, the criminal's or society's." His gaze returned to her. The bright bit of color in her hair again seemed to catch and hold his glance.

Lord Ronsdale regarded both quickly. A frown crossed his face, and he looked away to conceal the singularly cold and vindictive gleam that sprang to his eyes.

One evening about a fortnight later Lord Ronsdale in a dissatisfied frame of mind strolled along Piccadilly. He had begun to flatter himself that the flowery way to all he desired lay before him and that he had but to tread it when another, as the soothsayers put it, had crossed his path.

A plain man, a man without title! Lord Ronsdale told himself Miss Jocelyn Wray was no better than an arrant coquette, but the next moment questioned this conclusion. Had she not really been a little taken by the fellow? Certainly she seemed not averse to his company. When she would, and she would often, she summoned him to her side. Nor did he now appear reluctant to come at her bidding. Self assertive though he had shown himself to be, he obeyed, sans demur, the wave of my lady's little hand. Was it a certain largeness and reserve about him that had awakened her curiosity? From her high social position had she wished merely to test her own power and amuse herself after a light fashion, surely youth's and beauty's privilege?

But, whatever the girl's motive, her conduct in the matter reacted on my lord. The fellow was in the way—very much so. How could he himself pay court to her when she frivolously, if only for the moment, preferred this commoner's company?

What made the situation even more anomalous to Ronsdale and the less patiently to be borne was that Sir Charles understood and sympathized with his desires and position in the matter. And why not? Ronsdale's father and Sir Charles had been old and close friends. There were reasons that pointed to the match as a suitable one, and Sir Charles by his general manner and attitude had long shown he would put no obstacle in the way of the nobleman's suit for the hand of his fair niece. As for Lady Wray, Lord Ronsdale knew that he had in that practical and worldly person a staunch ally of his wishes. These had not become less ardent since he had witnessed the unqualified success of the beautiful colonial girl in London, noted how men illustrious in various walks of life, grave diplomats, stately ambassadors, were swayed by her light charm and impulsive frankness of youth. And to have her who could have all London at her feet, including his distinguished self, show a predilection, however short lived and capricious, for—

"Confound the cad! Where did he come from? Who are his family—if he has one?"

As the nobleman ascended the steps of his club he seemed again to be thinking deeply. Within, his preoccupation did not altogether desert him. In a corner, with the big pages of the Times before him, he read with scant interest the doings of the day. From behind another paper the face of a gray haired, good natured appearing person, quite different off the bench, chanced to look out at him.

"Eh? That you, Ronsdale?" he said, reaching for a steaming glass of hot beverage at his elbow. "How is your friend Sir Charles Wray? I had the pleasure of meeting him the other morning in the courtroom."

"Same as usual, I imagine, Judge Beeson."

"And his fair niece, she takes kindly to the town and its gayeties?"

"Very kindly," dryly.

"A beautiful girl our young Australian!" The elder man toyed with his glass, stirred the contents and sipped. "By the way, didn't I see John Steele in their box at the opera the other night?"

"It is possible," shortly.

"Rising man, that," observed the other lightly. "Combination of brains and force. Did you ever notice his fist? It might belong to a prizefighter, except that the hands are perfectly kept. You'd know at once he was a man accustomed to fighting, who would sweep aside obstacles, get what he wanted!"

"Think so?" Lord Ronsdale smoked steadily. "You as a magistrate, I suppose, know all about him?"

"Not much, only that he is an alien."

"An alien?" quickly. "Not a colonial?"

"No. He has lived in the colonies—Tasmania, and so on. But by birth he's an American."

"An American, eh? And practicing at the British bar?"

"Not the first case of the kind. Exceptions have been made before and aliens 'called,' as we express it. Steele's hobby of criminology brought him to London, and his earnestness and ability in that line procured for him the privilege he sought. As member of the incorporated society that passes upon the qualifications of candidates it was my pleasure to sit in judgment on him. We raked him fore and aft; but, bless you, he stood squarely on his feet and refused to be tripped."

"So he came to England to pursue a certain line?" said Lord Ronsdale half to himself.

"A man with a partiality for criminal work would naturally look to the modern Babylon. Steele apparently works more to gratify that predilection than for any reward in pounds and pence. Must have private means; have known him to spend a deal of time and money on cases there couldn't have been a sixpence in."

"How'd he happen to get down in Tasmania? Odd place for a Yankee."

"That's one of the questions he wasn't asked," laughingly. "Perhaps what our Teutonic friends would call the wanderlust took him there." Rising. "My compliments to Sir Charles when you see him."

Lord Ronsdale remained long at the club and the card table that night. Finally summoning a cab, he got in, but as he found himself rattling homeward to the chambers he had taken in a fashionable part of town he was aware that any emotions of annoyance and discontent experienced earlier that night had suffered no abatement.

He went up to his rooms. On the table in an inner apartment, his study, something bright, white, met his gaze—a note in Jocelyn Wray's handwriting. Quickly he reached for it and tore it open.

"A party of us ride in the park tomorrow morning. Will you join us?" Lord Ronsdale frowned.

"A party?" That would include John Steele perhaps.

FACE BROKEN OUT?

Pimples Replaced by Smooth, Clear Skin.

Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

Ugly pimples and blotches not only disfigure the face but cause unpleasant comments and suspicion.

They are a form of eczema and will not yield to "beauty preparations" but demand rational treatment.

It was in just such conditions that our new soothing, antiseptic skin remedy, Saxon Salve, first proves its great value. Apply it as directed on going to bed—only a few treatments are necessary to show its marvelous healing power.

A remarkable feature that gives special value to Saxon Salve, is its ability to penetrate the skin and carry its healing, germ-destroying action to the very seat of the disease.

We give back your money if Saxon Salve does not satisfy you fully. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

EMERGENCY SHORTCUTS.

The modern kitchen, with its up-to-date equipment is the pride of every home-maker who is fortunate enough to possess one; but the real genius in cookery delights to overcome difficulties and "make do" with few tools to work with. Did you ever see a camper open a sack of flour, pour in the water, add the salt, soda or baking powder, stir up the dough with a wooden paddle made with a jack-knife, and bake the dough before the fire with never a dish or utensil to use in its making? When we are roughing it, it is what we can do without and make less baggage that is the main thought.

The manufacturer is constantly on the watch to see where time and material as well as the energy of his workmen may be saved. When our housekeepers put thought and planning on their work, saving steps for themselves and their employees, we will have less servant problems to solve.

To make short cuts in housekeeping doesn't mean that work is slighted or half done. Housekeeping is a business, a profession, and women are too prone to follow the ways of their mothers before them, hence the disordered, unsystematic condition prevails.

In the business of housekeeping it is just as true that the greatest efficiency is the result of scientific management as in any other line of work.

One of the first things that a housewife who directs others has to learn, is how and what has to be done, and the time it takes for a person of ordinary ability to do it.

The unreasonable demands of some mistresses, who expect and demand the impossible, are legion. A skilled worker can, and does, accomplish much more in a given time than one who puts no thought into her work. But skilled workers are scarce and many are in training in our homes.

The arrangement of the utensils used in cooking within the easiest possible reach, the saving of steps by using a tray to remove and carry in dishes and food to and from the table, in these as well as many others with a little study one may see many short-cuts.

GRAY HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

Use Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and Your Gray Hair Will Quickly Vanish.

Gray hair is a mark of age, and nothing that can be said as to its beauty will offset the disadvantages of this mark of age set upon your brow.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy darkens the hair and restores it to its youthful beauty. Our grandmothers and their grandmothers before them used sage and sulphur for darkening their hair. Nothing has ever been found more effective for this purpose than these two time-honored remedies, but Wyeth, a modern chemist, has combined the two with other ingredients, which make a delightful dressing for the hair, and which not only removes every trace of dandruff but promotes the growth of the hair. It also stops the hair from falling out, and makes it beautiful.

All druggists are authorized to refund the money if it fails to do exactly as represented.

Don't neglect your hair and don't resort to old-time hair dyes. Get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist to-day, and notice the difference in your hair after a few days' use.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

THEY VIOLATED THE SACRED LAW

Government's Charge Against Members of Sugar Trust.

TENTH COMMANDMENT CITED

Not a Question of the Sherman Law. Says District Attorney Wise, but the Basic Principle "Thou Shalt Not Covet," Involved in the Transactions Whereby the Sugar Trust Overwhelmed Its Competitors.

New York, March 13.—In his opening remarks for the government District Attorney Wise charged John E. Parsons and the other defendants on trial in the United States circuit court for conspiracy under the criminal section of the Sherman law, with violating the Tenth commandment. Mr. Parsons came in for more mention than did the other defendants, because he, as counsel as well as a director of the sugar trust, had much to do. Mr. Wise charged, with arranging the deal, the purpose of which, the government charges, was to close up a rival refinery.

Throughout most of the day Mr. Parsons sat apart from the other defendants and at times during Mr. Wise's remarks regarding God's law and its application to business, his eyes closed. Washington B. Thomas, president of the American Sugar Refining company; Arthur Donner and George N. Frazier, co-defendants with Mr. Parsons, sat with the lawyers and frequently consulted with them. Charles R. Heike, under sentence for the weighing frauds, whose case is about to be reviewed, at times talked earnestly with Mr. Parsons. Mr. Heike is over seventy and Mr. Parsons over eighty.

Letters of two men now dead are relied upon largely by the government to convict Mr. Parsons and the other defendants. These men, now dead, are H. O. Havemeyer and Gustave E. Kissel, the latter the man through whom it is alleged the loan of $250,000 was made to Segel, which resulted in the closing of the Pennsylvania refinery. Mr. Havemeyer's letters were produced by the secretary of the sugar trust and Mr. Kissel's by his son, Thorne Kissel, an executor of his father's estate. Many letters of Mr. Parsons were also produced and marked for identification, though none of the letters was introduced in evidence.

In his opening Mr. Wise referred to the case as being extraordinary because of the character of the men involved. There was no novel application of law to the facts, he said.

"It is not necessary," said the district attorney, "to talk about the Sherman law or about any man-made law. It is simply charged against these men that they violated a law which was handed down by the Lord to Moses in the Tenth commandment: 'Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, nor anything that is thy neighbor's.'"

"The charge is simply that these men, the officers and directors of a corporation, with covetousness, with a desire for monopoly, with the purpose of obtaining to that corporation and to themselves the entire business of manufacturing and selling sugar, were pursuing the policy of monopolization, so that any person who was endeavoring to get into that business was looked upon as an intruder, and they did not propose that anyone should have any of that business but themselves. That was the policy of that corporation, framed by these men, and these men have been associated and connected with that corporation from its conception."

After describing how the neighbor's house they coveted in the present instance happened to be the Pennsylvania Refining company, built by Segel as one of his many promotions, Mr. Wise traced the beginning of the alleged conspiracy. While it was building, he said, the defendants, "impelled by the motive and purpose that had controlled their action for twenty years, had their head engineers sneaking down to Philadelphia, by deceit getting into the plant and watching the machinery installed and the bricks laid and reporting back to the head of the manufacturing committee of directors."

Will Vote on Pitney Today.

Washington, March 13.—The senate in executive session yesterday again discussed the nomination of Mahlon D. Pitney of New Jersey to be associate judge of the supreme court. Before adjournment it was agreed that a vote should be taken at 4 o'clock this afternoon, without further debate. It is thought the nomination will be confirmed, although certain labor leaders who have been about the capital trying to influence senators against confirmation are saying that the nomination will never be confirmed.

A Hand-to-Hand Battle.

Rome, March 13.—The Turks attacked two battalions of Italian troops at Tobruk on March 10 and a battle ensued which lasted six hours. The Turks were finally repulsed after the Italians had made two bayonet charges. The Italian loss was fifteen killed and seventy wounded.

Charles A. Bigelow, the comedian, is dead.

RUMORS OF A BRAND NEW "WHITE HOPE"

Mysterious Stranger to Go Against Jack Johnson.

Indianapolis, March 13.—Because the heavy stepper is strutting about in their midst in the person of Jack Johnson, alias Big Smoke, alias Big Cinder, alias Lil' Artha, who carries with him mighty kicks in both hands all the coffee colored sports in the city are stepping light. He also carries on his shoulders a sealskin overcoat that he said cost $1,100. There has never been such a coat in Bucktown and the Yellow bridge gave a shake when the mighty wallower and his fine duds walked over. That sealskin coat is not all. Mr. Johnson has swell tailor-made clothes and there are about $2,000 worth of sparklers on his bare mitts. In fact, this champion of all champions is the original bear cat. He is dressed up like a plush horse all the time, and when he and his white wife appeared in Bucktown there was a sensation.

Several local pugs have agreed to go on and box with the champion during his week's stay here. He promised not to kill them or even hurt them. It is said a brand new white hope, just plucked, will go against Johnson here. The plan is to see how this new hope will loom up against the champion.

MOTION OVERRULED

Meat Packers Lost Important Contention in Federal Court.

Chicago, March 13.—Federal Judge Carpenter decided against the packers in the case in which the beef trust heads are on trial for criminal conspiracy in restraint of trade. The court overruled the motion of the packers' attorney that the jury be directed to return a verdict for the defense. The guilt or innocence of the ten millionaires will now be determined by the jurors who have been listening to the government's evidence for nearly three months. The defense was directed to submit its evidence.

Canton Sacked by Mutineers.

Peking, March 13.—The Nanking delegates who are here have received a telegram stating that the troops at Canton had revolted and that the eastern city had been sacked and burned.

Relatives at Brownstown have received word that seems to indicate that Frank Sheets, who recently disappeared from his home in St. Cloud, Fla. is still among the living. Recently word came that he had left home and it was feared that as he had been discouraged on account of ill health and lack of employment that he might have committed suicide or met foul play. Recently the discovery of a body in a Florida lake led to the belief that it might be Sheet's but later this was found to be a mistake. His wife is now with relatives in Indianapolis.

The hens down around Browns-of last week. Bob has some Black Langshan hens that have laid four big eggs, the largest measuring eight and one-fourth inches in circumference the long way and six and a fourth inches the other way, and weighed five ounces, which is almost three times as heavy as an ordinary hen egg. Thinking the editor might be "From Missouri," Bob brought one of the real articles to our office—

the egg, not the hen.

A Nashville, Ind., special says:
The suffering of seven members of the family of William Williams, through want of food, is the most pitiable called to the attention of the charity workers of this city. They live in a rudely constructed building of one room, eight miles from Nashville.
The children were so hungry that they tried to eat a rabbit raw when three were given to the family. Mrs. Williams made haste to cook one of the rabbits, but before it was done the children removed it from the skillet.

Charity workers yesterday found the children eating raw corn. The mother said it was all there was in the house to eat. The family slept on the floor and their covering consisted of old carpets. A liberal sum of money has been given the family by charity workers.

TO WEST POINT

Joe Swope Will Receive Appointment to Military Academy.

Joe Swope, son of Mayor Allen
Swope, has been recommended by Congressman Lincoln Dixon for appointment as cadet at West Point, the United States military academy. He was an applicant for an appointment of the naval academy at Annapolis. Congressman Dixon telegraphed from Washington that there was no vacancy there at present which he was entitled to fill but that he would appoint Mr. Swope to West Point at once if desired. Acceptance of this offer was wired to Mr. Dixon last night. The examinations for entrance to the academy will be held April 27 and the fortunate young man will begin preparing for them as soon as he receives particulars regarding them. It is not known where they will be held but it is supposed they will be at the academy.

The appointment is an honor for any young man and is considered very desirable as it gives an opportunity for a splendid education and upon graduation an appointment as an officer in the United States army.
The large majority of the officers of the standing army are graduates of this institution.

The academy is located at West Point, the most beautiful point on the Hudson river above New York.

Consent to Talk It Over.

London, March 13.—Following the joint conference of Premier Asquith and members of the government with the mine owners and miners yesterday afternoon, the outlook was regarded as more hopeful, although the official statement issued was colored. The optimistic view comes chiefly from the fact that all the mine owners, including those of South Wales and Scotland, who are disinclined to make further concessions, accepted the invitation to attend the conference, which will reassemble today.

They Raised the Price.

Washington, March 13.—The coal strike in England and the prospective coal strike in the United States threaten to deal a blow to the American navy. As a result the navy department has called upon its coal contractors for heavy advance deliveries of fuel, only to be met with the demand that the price in the existing contracts be advanced from $2.50 to $2.70 per ton delivered at Newport News. This demand was flatly refused by Secretary of the Navy Meyer.
